

Tiger

You got a temper like a tiger, and a bite just like one too
Don't know how to live with you, it's like living in the Zoo
Sometimes there's stony silence, sometimes breaking crockery
Nothing's ever normal, baby, life's a mockery

When I come home from work, the house is always in a mess
There's dirty laundry on the table, and what those stains are I daren't guess
There's nothing in the freezer, not a thing to put on my plate
The only thing from the grocery store's Jack Daniels by the crate

Chorus

There's a demon in your head, baby
You got the devil's breath on you
You're nothing else but trouble, baby
What's a poor boy s'posed to do

I went to buy some holy water, to sprinkle it on you
But I swear it smells like whisky now, that's sure some trick you do
I was gonna call the preacher, but he says there's no cure
He's afraid to come and see you, he says you're just too impure

You never get up in the mornings, spend the whole day in my bed
Don't know how you stand those sheets, they smell like something long-since dead
But at night you come alive 'cos there's a darkness in your soul
You make Darth Vader look like Barbie, 'cos your heart's as black as coal

Chorus

But when you put that tight red dress on, the devil's horns they grow on me
You have me tremblin' with desire, baby, you got me on my knees
Then there's nothing I won't do for you, no matter how depraved
Your spell is cast on me, baby, for ever I'm your slave
